Bearing all this I could finally board into the bus, in a flash I remembered all my problems of the evening and in no time tears drifted(flow) through my eyes, as I could join the dots .... The shortage of money was actually the crisis in resources we expect , the load of text books were actually the responsibilities we carry, the bite in the shoe was the society that blamed for the imperfections in us and finally the hunger was our desire to develop, to improvise. With all these joined dots I could discover that I urge to grow defeating the hurdles! Now that I'm writing this, of course I've not achieved anything yet, but from that day I've grown , I've changed ! Hence even though the success isn't visible, the hunger is necessary, everyone are fighting and starving in their own ways, just like the one reading this.
